Stanford White’s New York
Feb. 18, Thursday, 5:30 PM

Architectural historian David Garrard Lowe, author of the new book Stanford White’s New York (Doubleday, 1992), will give a slide lecture on the city between the years 1880 and 1906. The lecture will take place in the sanctuary of Judson Memorial Church at 55 Washington Square South, one of the Village’s most historic and architecturally significant houses of worship. The church was designed by McKim Mead & White, with White as the principal architect, and built in 1890-92.

Stanford White, who also designed the Washington Square Arch, was one of the most famous celebrities of his day, a leading architect who created many of the period’s most glittering buildings and an impresario who led many of its revels. White designed many notable structures such as the old Madison Square Garden, the Metropolitan Club and New York University’s Gould Library, as well as opulent mansions for such clients as the Whitneys, Mackays, and Pulitzer’s. White also excelled in designing items such as book covers and picture frames, bringing his distinctive touch and talents to all of his work.

David Garrard Lowe is the author of the prize-winning books Lost Chicago and Chicago Interiors. He lectures and publishes extensively on the subjects of art and architecture. Mr. Lowe is Professor of Architectural History at the New York School of Interior Design and is the urban affairs critic for WNYC-AM. Most recently he was the curator of the exhibition Stanford White’s New York: A Celebration of the City, sponsored by the Municipal Art Society.

There is no admission charge for the lecture on February 18, but reservations are requested. A reception at 5:30 PM will precede the lecture.

The Northern Dispensary
March, Call 212/924-3895 for date and time

One of the Village’s most significant landmark buildings, the Northern Dispensary will be the focus of the Society’s sixth Inside Look in March. Located at the intersection of Waverly Place, Christopher and Grove Streets, the triangular red-brick structure was erected in 1831 and served the public for more than 150 years as a non-profit health clinic. The building, which has been closed for the past several years, is to be converted into 15-units of housing for homeless people with HIV-related illnesses by the Bowery Residents’ Committee (BRC) Human Services Corporation. Plans for this facility won Community Board 2 support in mid-December.

The Northern Dispensary was founded in 1827 by a group of private citizens "for the purposes of relieving such sick, poor and indigent persons as are unable to procure medicinal aid" residing in what was then "the northern district of the city." The clinic provided low-cost health services at no cost to the taxpayer, specializing exclusively in more recent years in complete dental care until it closed.

The Northern Dispensary in 1865. The Gothic Revival style battlement crowning the building, added with the third story in 1854, was subsequently removed (engraving from Valentine’s Manual, 1865).

The chief income of the Dispensary in its early years was from annual subscriptions of five dollars, which entitled the donors to send their servants for free medical treatment. Among some of the early lifetime subscribers (at $50) were Peter Cooper, the founder of The Cooper Union; Clement C. Moore, author of "A Visit from St. Nicholas"; inventor Samuel F.B. Morse; soprano Jenny Lind; and P.T. Barnum. Perhaps the Dispensary’s most famous patient was Edgar Allan Poe, who stopped in during the winter of 1837 to get medicine for a head cold.

Please call (212) 924-3895 for the date and time of this tour in March. Due to space limitations, reservations are required for this free program and will be honored in order of receipt. Society members only.

Famous Artists of Greenwich Village
May 15, Saturday, 1:00 PM

A new walking tour on the subject of "Famous Artists of Greenwich Village" in May will focus on a number of painters and sculptors who lived in the Village or whose work remains here as an artistic legacy. Plans for the tour include visits to the studio of Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney (now part of the New York Studio School), the former Tile Club, the Grey Art Gallery and the Salmagundi Club, the oldest professional artists club in...
Annual Village Awards for 1993

The third Annual Village Awards will be presented in June at the Society’s Annual Meeting. Nominations are now invited from all members and friends; please use the nomination form enclosed with this issue of The Anthemion.

The Village Awards honor people and places that have contributed significantly to the quality of life in our neighborhood. Last year’s recipients included the Church of St. Luke in the Fields; the Sheridan Square Viewing Garden; the Washington Square Music Festival; the West Village Committee Newsletter; Anglers & Writers Café; and Mr. Richard Walker, a longtime resident of West 11th Street. In addition, The Front Stoop Award for an improvement to the Village streetscape was given to the Village Community School for their new wrought-iron fence.

The Society’s Awards Committee, chaired by Vice-President James Stewart Polshek, will consider all nominations. Please forward nominations by April 1, 1993 to the Committee at the address on the enclosed form.

December Holiday Event Celebrates West Village Church

On December 7 approximately 150 friends and members of the Society gathered at No. 232 West Eleventh Street, today the Manhattan Seventh-day Adventist Church. Erected in 1881-82 as the North Baptist Church to the designs of architect Lawrence B. Valk, the structure served a Baptist congregation until 1947. Its greatest benefactor in the 1880’s was philanthropist John D. Rockefeller, who made significant contributions to pay its construction debt, to purchase the grand organ, and to design the outstanding stained glass memorial windows. The Queen Anne style building still retains many of its significant exterior details and its exceptional second floor sanctuary/auditorium is one of the finest interior spaces in the Village.

A highlight of the evening was a music program performed in the sanctuary by the choir of St. Joseph’s School. The 16-voice chorus, under the direction of Curtis Antonio Gomes, sang a medley of holiday selections, including two numbers for boy soloists.

Among those attending the event were Assemblymember Deborah Glick; Meg Reed representing Senator Manfred Ohrenstein; David Freudenthal and Helena Yee of Manhattan Borough President Ruth Messinger’s Office; Esther Tessler representing Councilmember Antonio Pagan; Landmarks Preservation Commissioner Stephen Raphael; Elizabeth Butson, publisher and editor of The Villager; Kenneth Cobb, Director of the Municipal Archives; and David Garrard Lowe, author of the new book Stanford White’s New York.

The Society extends its deepest appreciation to Mario Pietravalle and the congregation of the Manhattan Seventh-day Adventist Church and to Deolores Musante, Principal of St. Joseph’s School, for making the Holiday evening such a wonderful success.

America. The significant murals by Thomas Benton and the Mexican artist Orozco at the New School for Social Research will also be viewed. Among the artists to be covered are Edward Hopper, Frederick MacMonnies, Herman Atkins MacNeil, Lockwood deForest, John Sloan, William Merritt Chase, Child Hassam, John LaFarge and Marcel Duchamp. More information about the tour will be sent to members in mid-April.

The anthemion was a standard architectural ornament of the 1830-1850 Greek Revival period in the United States. It abounds in Greenwich Village, especially as a cast-iron cresting atop fences and basement window grilles, and in modified wooden form over doorways.

April Event to Benefit the Society

Greenwich Village à la Carte: A Food Journey into the Past

The Benefit Committee of the Society is planning a special event celebrating the history of food and restaurants in Greenwich Village for Sunday, April 18. Working with the committee to put together an exciting program is Michael Batterberry, the noted editor of Food Arts magazine. Batterberry and his wife Ariane are the authors of On the Town in New York (1973), a lively history of the customs in eating and drinking in both high and low society. The April 18 event will include speakers, a reception, and a private gastronomic feast for Patrons and Benefactors at the James Beard House on West Twelfth Street.

Invitations will be mailed to all friends and members in mid-March. Capacity is limited, so please save the date and plan to join your friends and neighbors on April 18.

Welcome to New Members

The Greenwich Village Society welcomes the following as its most recent new members:

New Advisers

In addition to its Board of Trustees, the Greenwich Village Society is fortunate to draw upon the expertise and support of a varied group of people known as "Advisers". Recently, six valued friends of the Society agreed to serve as new Advisers; they are Kent Barwick, President of the Municipal Art Society; Joan K. Davidson, President of the J.M. Kaplan Fund; playwright John Guare; James Ortenzio, the owner of a number of businesses in the Gansevoort Meat Market; architect Edgar Tafel; and author Calvin Trillin.

The Society notes with sorrow the recent passing of two longtime Advisers. Hanya Holm, a major choreographer of modern dance and Broadway musicals such as "Kiss Me Kate" and "My Fair Lady", died in Manhattan on November 3. Dr. Bayrd Still, a professor of history for four decades at New York University and the founding director of the school's Archives, died on November 19 in Woodstock, Illinois. Dr. Still initiated the Society's lecture series in 1982 with a popular talk entitled "Greenwich Village: People and Places 1830-1850".
